Glossary

When the whole family scrambles to prepare for Cinco de Mayo, Perico, the family parrot, wants to help.

“Let me help” is a sentence he has heard many times over by little Martita who has been repeating it lately. So Perico tries to help the family make tamales, paper flowers and even the boys practice their mariachi dance. But despite his attempts, Perico is always shooed away, until he finally figures out how he can help when no one else can.

A story for every young reader who has been told they were too young to do something.
